

"I was a big fan of the Little Lulu comic books, and as a parent, I loved Shel Silverstein's books. His storytelling is beautiful, poetic and poignant." —DEMI MOORE in Vivienne Westwood dress and Casadei heels with ASHTON KUTCHER

We asked ...
What was your favorite kids book?
 At the Bulgari Benefit for Save the Children U.S. and Artists for Peace & Justice

"Treasure Island. I loved the adventure and the danger." —GERARD BUTLER with RICKY MARTIN

"A Swedish series called Bamse, about a little bear who eats honey and gets really strong." —MALIN AKERMAN in J. Mendel dress with Pantera clutch

"I was into Greek mythology and fantasy, so I really loved The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings." —MILLA JOVOVICH in Pucci with ADRIEN BRODY

"Howard Zinn's A People's History of the United States. I actually read it as a teenager, and it had a different perspective from all the usual propaganda." —JOSH BRODIN with KIRSTEN DUNST in Prada

The inside scoop In a faux-library tent, complete with reading lamps and hardcover tomes as centerpieces, nearly 200 guests at this fund-raising dinner in Beverly Hills supped on Alaskan black cod and braised short ribs. Later, they engaged in a spirited auction to benefit humanitarian and children's education causes. The night climaxed with a rousing performance by Ricky Martin, who jumped off the stage to hug a titillated Sharon Osbourne. "I've had the biggest crush on him forever!" she said, before mischievously grabbing his derriere. Anything for a good cause, right? —LINDZI SCHARF

A portion of the proceeds from this sterling silver and ceramic ring finances education efforts ($370; us.bulgari.com).
